

Department of Medicine Academic Position Descriptions

Academic Position Descriptions are department specific.

The amount of professional time expected to be devoted to academic activities varies by appointment type as follows: Adjunct appointment: < 20% (less than one day per week on average); Part-time appointment: 20-79% (between one and four days per week on average); and Full-time appointment: ≥ 80% (four or more days per week). For example, a Clinician Teacher with an Adjunct faculty appointment is expected to contribute ~ one day per week to academic activities comprised of clinical teaching (75% of that time) and formal teaching (20% of the time). All faculty members are expected to teach in the context of clinical care. Formal teaching refers to teaching outside of the context of clinical care.

For full-time clinical faculty, recommended timeframes for allocation of clinical activities, which include clinical teaching are as follows: 10% time = one half day = four - five hours = 0.5 ER shifts

Research Scientist (RS)

Academic Focus (excellence in...)	Non-clinician researcher conducting research of all types
Academic Goal	Excellence in Research
Percent full-time faculty with this APD	1%
Percent of professional time spent as follows:
Clinical care (including clinical teaching)	NA
Scholarly activities	70% Formal teaching: all types of graduate teaching, e.g., graduate level course instruction and supervision; and undergraduate MD seminars & lectures. Research productivity: PI on at least one peer-reviewed operating grant AND two to three first- or senior-author peer-reviewed publications per year over a three-year period AND evidence of impact outside local setting.
Administrative Service	5% (required post-CFAR for full-time faculty) Examples of administrative service: serving on hospital, divisional, departmental and university committees